Hope to Win Yanks' Freedom: Donovan

The man who engineered the release of 1,113 Cuban captives said Tuesday that he hoped to accomplish the release of 25 to 30 American prisoners within two weeks.

James B. Donovan, a pink-faced, white-haired New York lawyer, added that he did not think Russia's announced recall of some of its Cuban troops would affect his mission.

"It would represent an easing of tension," he said, however.

DONOVAN, here to address a meeting of the Inland Daily Press Assn., negotiated the release last December of Cubans taken prisoner in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

They were handed over by Cuba in exchange for some $53,000,000 in American food and medicine.

The American prisoners are being held on a variety of criminal and political charges.
